ABOUT THE CAVE

Baredine cave is a karst phenomenon, geomorphological monument of nature and the first Istrian speleological site modelled to meet tourist demands, as such open since 1995.

This cave is a treasury of stalactites and stalagmites, underground sculptures created by persistent, constant water flows. This way the spectacular crystalline forms were formed, of which the most conspicuous ones are the 10 metre long "curtains", a lifelike Virgin Mary statue, Milka the shepherdess statue, the Leaning Tower of Pisa, and Snowman – the torchbearer that has become the trademark of the cave.

USEFUL AND IMPORTANT INFORMATION :

*You have to bear in mind that the steps inside the cave are of an irregular shape and height.

*Due to a temperature of about 14 degrees and the total of 270 steps, we suggest you bring along suitable clothes and shoes.

*It is not recommended for people with heart or lung diseases to visit the cave. The access to the cave is not possible for people with severe disabilities or in wheelchairs.

*Visitors keen to do the cave tour but suffering from certain health problems usually descend the cave accompanied by a guide. Their ascent is usually at a slower pace and with occasional stops every few minutes if necessary. You have to bear in mind that the steps inside the cave are of an irregular shape and height.
